BARIUM SPRINGS, N. C., JANUARY 1961

No. 1

Report Of The Superintendent To The Board

For seven decades the loving care of the Heavenly Father has been manifested in the life of Barium Springs. During the seventh decade, I can personally bear witness to the fact that the providence of God has been daily evident in the operation of the Home. The fiscal year closing is the beginning of the eighth decade, and there is every reason to believe that the same divine guidance will continue to rest upon this place if the Board of Regents, the administrative staff, and the children of the Home will continue to turn to Him for guidance.

Three major events have taken place in the work of the Buildings and Grounds Committee. The water line has been completed on the campus and every building now has the use of city water. The staff quarters are completed and four of the five units are now occupied. The swimming pool is in the process of construction and is scheduled to be completed not later than May 1, 1961. These three bring much delight and happiness to the campus and will continue to do so for many years to come.

The Sprunt Infirmary was remodeled during the summer and the elementary school building had many changes made in it. The McNair School building is yet to be changed into a campus center, though some use has been made of it already in its present condition. The winter and spring months will see the conversion of this building to its new purpose. Colonel Norman Pease of Charlotte is the architect to present plans for the new Howard Cottage, and this building will be completed in '61. In the long range planning program, Lees Cottage ought to be replaced and Rumble Hall should be replaced with a modern dining room and kitchen with adequate food storage and distribution center.

The anticipated enrollment for the winter is two hundred children. At present, there are about one hundred seventy-five on campus with applications on file and others yet to be made. This enrollment is in line with the general trend in the United States. For a number of years, there has been a considerable decrease in institutional enrollment. The reason for this decrease is that the institutions are not having to care for all the children. Foster homes, adoptions, and the benefits of social security to families have made it unnecessary for the Homes to take many of the children that ordinarily would have been admitted. At the present time, there seems to be a leveling off, and it is anticipated that the enrollment will be about the same for the next few years unless a depression comes. An additional caseworker has been added to the department.

Letter From A Newspaper Editor

DEAR MR. MCCLURE:

Thank you for your letter and for briefing me on information about the Homecoming day.

As you evidently know, I am a former Barium boy, but the word "boy" is very much a misnomer. The years long since have caught up with me and now I wonder how long before they overtake me. Altogether I spent five years at the orphanage, four as one of the boys, and one (in 1911) as manager of the printing office.

My first four years there are as clear to me as if I were living them over right now. They were the happiest years of my early life, and they were the most impressionistic. I have never forgotten the things I learned at Barium and never a day passes that I do not feel the wholesome influence of those days.

And somewhere back in my heart there is a constant prayer of thankfulness, uttered without effort, for the Presbyterians of North Carolina and for the people who, by whatever title, staff the Home (now as well as then) for turning misfortune into good fortune for hundreds of kids who without such help would never have a chance to grow into normal manhood and womanhood.

Many of us may have failed to make good—but everyone of us has been given the opportunity.

I learned the printing trade at Barium in the little shop that then was in the basement of Lees Cottage. I followed the trade 12 years and it served me well. It enabled me to pay my own way through Elon College, which I consider one of the best schools in the state. For several years the urge had been building up in me to leave the shop and get into the "front end" of the newspaper business. This I did, with a brief interruption during World War I which I spent on the sprawling hot wastes of Camp Jackson (now Ft. Jackson) in South Carolina. I served on newspapers in Raleigh, Charlotte and Wilmington before joining the staff of Greensboro Daily News. I suppose I am stuck here for life, with no regrets. I have served in every capacity in the news department of the Daily News and now am Sunday editor.

Since leaving Barium I may not have always lived like a king, but because of the Barium imprint upon me for integrity, honesty and modesty I certainly have lived with as much satisfaction as a king.

Four of us Reynolds children spent varying periods at the orphanage. My eldest sister has a wonderful family of four. Her twin boys operate the farm for their father's estate, and one of them was caught in the Battle of the Bulge but survived without wounds. Her two girls are nurses (both anesthetists) and one of them was a captain of nurses with the Army in Europe. My brother now is retired after years with Carolina Power & Light Co. and his wife is a splendid teacher. My younger sister died several years ago after an operation. My wife and I have what we consider the world's two finest girls, both graduates of Greensboro College (that's where they wanted to go, perhaps because of its exclusiveness). One of them is a member of the Daily News staff and the youngest taught in Statesville Senior High School before her marriage in 1957. She now has a little boy six months old.

That just about introduces you to my family, and I'll get back to Barium, and to Rev. R. W. Boyd whom I consider without a peer for saintliness and practicality. He literally gave his life for his orphan household, and denied himself of this world's goods to which he was entitled. For some reason unknown to me he never forgot me. Many years after I had left Barium as a youngster verging on my teens he came to my home in Greensboro. He then was a tottering old man, with a quivering voice. He wept as he embraced me, a man of nearly 200 pounds, and said, "Can this be little Jimmie?" That's what he called me back at Barium. Despite his frailty his mind was clear as he named other boys and girls who were there when I was and expressed pride over the manner in which they were making their way in the world. His thoughts were never on himself but on the boys and girls to whom he had dedicated his life. That was the last time I saw him.

I often wonder what the Orphans' Home would be like today had it not been for his guidance, his self-denial, his remarkable psychology of childhood at a time when child psychology was not given the thought and study that it is given today. I realize there would still be a Barium Springs—great and inspiring and strong—and a credit to the great Church that sponsors and supports it. Mr. Boyd started there with very little, and that, too, shortly after was reduced to ashes. He, with the help of a few other devoted men and women, built it back in brick and stone. The Home itself is a memorial to him—without his name attached to it in any fashion. Perhaps he would have wished it that way.

But some day, possibly, there will arise on the campus a building or something with the name "Boyd" upon it to lend inspiration to generations yet to come. It could be a structure of enduring masonry, but right now my idea of a memorial is a Boyd Memorial Fund, added to from time to time by the alumni (and any others desiring to contribute), the money to be invested and the fund allowed to accumulate over a reasonable period of years before any of the income is expended. We all have seen little things grow great.

Something of the nature as outlined above would be my idea of a suitable memorial—a living thing that would help needy children in future years. There always will be kids

RUMBLE HALL

Hello, everyone. Gee, the time sure passes by fast. It seems like just yesterday we were all getting out of school for Christmas holidays. Even though it's gone, we all had a big and nice one. This year we got to eat breakfast Christmas morning in our cottages and get up any time to open our presents. Our cottage got up at four o'clock, went to the living room and opened our presents. At five o'clock we were all back in bed snoozing away. Then at seven-thirty we all got up, ate breakfast and went back to our presents. Everyone was so excited.

We also had several visitors—the boys and girls on the campus, and several of our relatives came to spend Christmas day with us.

Monday after Christmas our two seniors went home for their Christmas vacation. We missed them very much.

It's about time to start back to school, but we all dread it.

Happy New Year!

LOTTIE WALKER GIRLS

Hi Friends,

We are all back again with our cottage news. We all had a Merry Christmas and are looking forward to the New Year. With our ten dollars we had a supper for our cottage. We had ham and the trimmings that go with it.

A senior girl, Helen Spencer, spent five days at her home in Gastonia. This is one of the many privileges of a Senior.

School began on the second day of January and not anyone was looking forward to exams.

UNDER THE STEEPLE

By REV. HUGH B. CARTER, JR.

The procession made its way from Fellowship Hall to the front steps of Little Joe's Church at a brisk pace in the face of an icy wind. First the thirty members of the Chancel Choir, then the eight elders and deacons who would serve the Communion, followed by the fifteen boys and girls being admitted to the Lord's Table for the first time. Behind the young communicants, Reverend Albert McClure and the pastor followed the procession. As the Westminster chimes in the church tower struck eleven o'clock on the morning of January First, the long column of twos entered the sanctuary singing "Praise The Lord, His Glories Show." It was an exciting way to begin the new year for all of us under the steeple. After six weeks of instruction by the minister, the following class was examined and received into the full communing membership of the Church: William Percy Utsman, Terry Baird Roderick, Royce Lee Harris, Jerry Mason Drumm, Frank A. Dennis, Jerry Wayne Brewer, Marvin Arnold Elliott, and Herbert Franklin Davis, each of whom were candidates for the sacrament of Baptism. The following, who also made a profession of faith in Jesus Christ, had been baptized in infancy: Robert Bruce Neill, Randolph Leslie Medlin, William Lawrence Edwards, and Jack Wayne Smith. Three were received by certificate of transfer: Anita Louise Bowers, Rose Marie Ross, and William Jerry Wright. Before partaking of the Lord's Supper, the entire congregation engaged in a rededication to Christ as a Community of Love, as Fellow-servants, and as Witnesses to the Gospel of salvation. For all of us, it was a significant beginning of a new year in Christ.

There were scores of visitors who joined us for worship during the Holiday Season. Most of our college students were on hand, and Miss Julia Clendenin of Flora Macdonald served as organist during a regular service.

The Senior Highs celebrated Christmas Eve by singing Carols across the campus, and the Pioneers dramatized the Nativity in a Wednesday night service held in the Church Educational Building.

Charles Smith became the thirtieth child in thirteen months to recite from memory the Catechism For Younger Children (21 boys and 9 girls).

It was recently reported that the giant 200 inch telescope in California enabled scientists to photograph the collision of two galaxies six million light years away! Was it the late William Temple who said that if man is spiritual and stars are not, then God is vastly more concerned with the selfishness of a little child than about the wreck of a solar system!

in need of help. To me, that type of memorial would be better than to spend a little amount on some gadget or furnishing that, figuratively, would be here today and gone tomorrow.

Do you think it is worth considering? Or am I a little too ambitious? I realize the vast majority of alumni never knew Mr. Boyd; some perhaps never heard of him. But during his struggles of the 1890's and early 1900's he was working not only for the boys and girls there then, but for those of future generations. All of us owe him a debt of gratitude.

Another word before I close this too-lengthy letter. Little Joe died in a room next to one occupied by me and three other boys at Synod's Cottage. Oscar Mann (I believe) the day before had brought him down to that room at the head of the stairs on the second floor because it had a fireplace and could be kept more comfortable. Miss Celeste Boyd, who died a few years ago, was matron at Synod's. I shall never forget that phase of my life at Barium.

This letter is personal. I thought you might be interested in hearing from one who lived at Barium at the turn of the century. The place was good then; it is better now, and I am confident it will continue to flourish under your guiding hand.

Sincerely,

JAS. F. REYNOLDS

REPORT OF SUPERINTENDENT TO THE BOARD

Mr. Lofquist will be responsible for the five eastern presbyteries and Miss Carpenter will be responsible for the four western presbyteries. The work with the families of the children, with the children themselves on the campus, and the work with the children in the public schools give more than can yet be done by these two persons. Believing that institutional setting is detrimental to young children, it is hoped that the Board will take action setting the ages of admission to be ordinarily between the ages of five and fifteen years.

The financial picture will be most adequately presented in the report of the auditors, together with a statement from the treasurer of the Home. Let it be said that the Home has operated within the budget approved by the Regents and that all expenditures have been in keeping with the established policies of the Board. The finance committee in its report will present fully the financial picture.

The new venture of having grades five through eight join the high school at the Troutman consolidated school seems good. This change brings about many other changes in the daily operation of the Home and has caused the administration and staff to be unusually busy in setting up a new pattern of life for the campus. This enlarged community living has helped to reduce a good many of the tensions existing on the "closed campus." It affords an opportunity to see the reaction of the children in community life and, also, brings to them many new and happy relationships.

The members of the staff of the Home continue to render excellent service. It is amazing how much work is done by the nearly five dozen people who are charged with the responsibility of the place. Serving beyond the call of duty and investing in the name of the church are the labors of love from those who serve Barium Springs. Securing adequate replacements for those who retire and those who desire to make changes is exceedingly difficult. The Board must continue to give serious consideration to providing adequate salaries for competent personnel of the Home.

The farm with its orchard, dairy, and gardens has produced well during the year. The heavy winter with its snows and bitter cold took some heavy toll in the life of the farm; it, also, brought some advantages. No spring freezes afforded an excellent crop of peaches and a bountiful crop of apples. The small grain yield was lower than last year, amounting to approximately eight thousand bushels. The farm program still needs serious consideration given to it in its various phases. The superintendent has not yet seen fit to expend the sum of five thousand dollars for the irrigation equipment. There is prerequisite planning and some additional preparations before such an investment would be most wisely made. Also, the delay in a report from one of the firms surveying our needs added necessarily to the delay. It is believed that, if State College would do an evaluation of the dairy program, it would be wise to ask for this. When the Home could consume its own production of milk, the savings was considerable. Now, the Home has to meet every requirement imposed on commercial enterprises and, also, has to purchase at the top prices the processed milk consumed by the Home. This makes an entirely different picture for the dairying project at Barium and needs serious study given to it. A new dairyman, Mr. George Smith, has just begun his work at Barium. It is believed that, through his efforts, the maximum results can be obtained from the dairy and, thus, an examination as to the effectiveness of the program now would be very helpful to the administration and to the Board. The farm manager together with the superintendent aided by the farm committee will be giving diligent study to the total operation and its relationship to the Home. Subsequently, recommendations should be forthcoming from the farm committee for the continuation of the program as it is or as it should be changed.

The educational fund is a life saver for the children of the Barium family. In September, there were thirty children from Barium in school or in training. Twenty-three of these were from the Home and seven were children of the staff members. They were studying or taking training in eighteen different institutions, most of which are in North Carolina.

Certainly, the religious life of the campus is of major concern for all who live and work at Barium Springs. The leadership of the Reverend Hugh B. Carter, assisted by Miss Rosemary Rector, is most satisfactory. The regular services of the church, the church school, and youth groups are carried on; individual work and study is done with the children and cottage programs and visitations are planned and carried out.

As the superintendent, I would express my pleasure in the relationship of the Board to the work of the Home and the individual members to the superintendent. I have endeavored to carry out the policies set forth by the Board and shall continue to do so. In humble reliance upon God for strength, I pledge again my loyalty to the Board in service to the church and to the boys and girls of this Home.

HOWARD COTTAGE

Hi There,

These are the Howard girls, but we don't live in Howard any more. We live at Lees Cottage. We are waiting for Howard to be torn down and the new one built.

We all had a wonderful Christmas. Each girl in our cottage received what she wanted and more, too. We wish to thank each of you for making this possible.

We were really glad to get out of school for two weeks because we have really had fun. We went to movies, had a basketball game between houseparents and children, and had a square dance. It was all lots of fun.

Each girl wishes you a Happy New Year.

WALLACE COTTAGE BOYS

Dear Friends,

Christmas has come and gone but its memories linger on. Everyone in the cottage received such enjoyable and useful gifts that we will be reminded each day of your love and unselfishness in making this such a happy experience for each of us.

The big boys have been able to enjoy the T. V. to their hearts' content; as, the little boys have so many toys and games, they have passed it by most of the time. It is always a toss up to see what program will be watched.

We have certainly enjoyed all the good things to eat—homemade candy and cake, and fruits. We had a rabbit supper in our cottage Saturday night. Thanks to Leon Waters and Mike Roderick for catching the rabbits.

We hope 1961 will bring each of you Health, Happiness and Success.
